Fourth of July in Bangor.

The anniversary of our National Independence was celebrated in this city in usual manner of firing salutes and ringing of bells at morning and night, by the display of flags and other similar demonstrations of joy. The truckmen of the city formed a company of about one hundred troop with uniform white frocks, all well mounted and made a very handsome and formidable appearance. The Bangor City Greys were out in uniform with full ranks. The Brewer Artillery and Light Infantry Companies honored our city with a visit. These demonstrations gave quite a bustle and stir in our streets. There was also a large Mass Convention called here for that day and a vast multitude was expected here from all parts of the State. This convention added somewhat to the number of visitors in the city and to the parade and bustle of the streets, as the convention with as many others as could well be got together formed a procession which was escorted by the the Truckmen and Military Companies mentioned. The day passed off very satisfactorily and out of the number of those the day and the convention brought together nearly twenty seven persons were imprisoned for drunkenness and other misdemeanors. The special police established for the occasion did good service to the community. In the evening there was a display of Fire Works and a band discoursing music in front of the Bangor House.

The Loco Great Mass State Convention.

The State Mass Convention of the Locos that has for weeks past occupied so much of the attention of the party and which on account of the day of its being called and a multitude of special efforts was thought would far surpass every thing of the kind ever witnessed in Maine, came off in this city on Thursday the Fourth day of July one thousand eight hundred and forty four.

The whole number in the procession as it passed Kenduskeag bridge by a cohort by two persons taking the highest sum was 1434. Of this number not less than two hundred were boys and those less than twenty one years of age. The military including the troop of Truck-men numbered about two hundred.

We heard a statement made at Old Town by one of the delegates to the Loco great Mass

State Convention, on his return, that the Convention numbered seventeen thousand and that in the procession! This was a case of seeing double to wonderful effect. The weather was delightful, special steam boats were in requisition, free breakfasts and free passage in the cars ed the Tariff of 1842 and the doctrine of Protection and insisted upon it that the duty on an article is so much added to the price—that the present Tariff greatly increased the cost of ship building, the cost of stoves, the cost of barn shovels, boots, and flat-irons. Mr Woodbury was sufficiently distinct against the Tariff, against protection and clearly made up the issue for his political friends in Maine of Tariff or no Tariff—Protection or no Protection. This is fair, the great issue is before the people. Upon this issue the people are to decide. Our correspondents have furnished us with sketches of Mr W's remarks and we shall proceed immediately to show the entire and absolute falsity of his conclusion when tested by actual facts.

This speech of Mr Woodbury's has spread a wet blanket over his party here and has greatly enlarged the hopes of the Whigs. Mr W's visit has done as good service for the Whigs as did the famous visit of Isaac Hill in 1840. We hope Mr W., will remain for sometime in the State and preach his free trade notions every day, because the facts in business, facts transpiring every day and known to the people generally, upset all the assumptions and erroneous conclusions of the Free Trade School of politicians, and thus expose the absurdities of locofocoism generally, to the great Mass of the people who always mean to be honest.

Mr Moore of Waterville, Shepard Cary of Houlton, and Patrick Crogan of Hermon, were among the speakers that filled up the afternoon.

Whig Celebration at Milford.

The true hearted and indomitable whigs of Milford, with their women, celebrated our great National Anniversary in an enthusiastic and highly satisfactory manner. A noble Liberty pole was erected and the National Banner, having the honored names of Clay and Frelinghuysen attached to it, was unfolded to the breeze, and on the fourth of March next to float in triumph on the occasion of the reins of government being placed in the hands of the enlightened statesman and unblemished patriot, Henry

Clay.

Salutes were fired at intervals during the day from a broad mouthed cannon, sending a joyous echo over the hill tops and along the waters of the Penobscot.

At an early hour a large company assembled when a procession was formed, a part of which was composed of the beautiful women of Milford and the vicinity, and proceeded through the village to a pleasant field on the banks of the Penobscot where a convenient stage was erected for the accommodation of the officers of the day and the speakers, and near which comfortable seats were provided for the women.

The meeting was called to order by the President of the day, Rufus Davenport, Esq. who, in a brief but very happy manner alluded to the day and the objects of the celebration by the whigs of Milford.

A good whig song was then sung by a company of young men from Bangor.

Rev. Mr Blanchard addressed the throne of grace in a fervent and heart moving prayer.

The Declaration of Independence was read by Mr Lewis Simpson.

An address was delivered by John S. Say-ward of Bangor.

During the delivery of the address, Col. Dumont of Hallowell, unexpectedly arrived upon the ground and on his name being announced by the speaker, three rapturous cheers were given.

At the conclusion of the address, Col. Dumont was loudly called for and in responding to the pressing repairing and remodeling in all ments of all kinds. In this department at ed Mrs. J cannot be surpassed either in ex of work or reasonableness of price.
